Cooperative European Pediatric Transplant Initiative Liver (CERTAIN-LI) Registry – Privacy policy and service agreement –

The German Society for Paediatric Gastroenterology and Nutrition (GPGE) is committed to protect your privacy and to develop technology that gives you powerful and safe online experience. Technical and organizational measures provide that we observe the laws of data protection. This agreement applies to the CERTAIN-LI Registry internet portal and system (in the following referred to as 'the CERTAIN-LI Registry') and governs data collection and usage. The CERTAIN-LI Registry is stored and published on servers in Germany. By using the CERTAIN-LI Registry, you should be aware of the practices as described in this statement.

Collection of Information

Utilization data

Some information about your computer hardware and software which potentially is personally identifiable is automatically recorded by the CERTAIN-LI Registry servers. On every request of a website of the CERTAIN-LI Registry respective request information will be stored in a log file of the server. This is information your web browser transmits to our servers (your IP address/host name, browser type and version, operating system, requested URL, access time and date, web pages visited within the CERTAIN-LI Registry and referring web site addresses).

This information will be stored anonymously and separated from personal data (e. g. registration data). Furthermore, the registry system collects user's registry usage data (e. g. data input times, avg. session duration).

There will be no individual-related evaluation or single user profiles. The anonymous data is used by the CERTAIN-LI Registry to provide general statistics regarding use of the CERTAIN-LI Registry, for the operation of the service, to maintain quality of the service, for research purposes and to deliver customized content to users. Information will be published or provided to third parties only aggregated – this almost precludes identification of individuals.

Use of Cookies

The CERTAIN-LI Registry uses cookies. A cookie is a text file that is placed on your hard disk by our web server. The purpose of a cookie is to improve navigation on websites and to recall your specific information on subsequent visits as well as to collect additional statistical information, e. g. which CERTAIN-LI Registry services are the most popular. Cookies are uniquely assigned to your Computer and provide no personal identification. A Cookie can only be read by a web server in the domain that issued the cookie to you. Cookies cannot be used to run programs or deliver viruses to your computer.

You can also visit the CERTAIN-LI Registry without accepting Cookies. If you choose to decline cookies, a mechanism called URL rewriting is used instead. URL rewriting means that a unique session identifier is added to every web address in order to enable a similar convenience as with the use of cookies.

Notice: Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer.
